

GAVE BAD CHECKS AND LANDS IN JAIL

A. F. Weber, Who Left Here Sunday, Arrested by Rushville Police on Two Charges.

IS WANTED AT GREENSBURG

Left $184.35 Check With Citizens' National Bank for Collection—Board Bill is Due.

A. F. Weber, who took sudden leave of Seymour Sunday night after failing to pay a $25 fine in the police court, is in jail at Rushville upon a charge of beating a board bill and passing fraudulent checks. Weber was so anxious to get away from this city that he did not leave his future address and no one knew where he had gone. It appears, however, that he went to Greensburg from here and tried to get some money on several bad checks which proved his undoing. He lived in this city for several months and was employed as a barber.

The Seymour National Bank has received a check from the Citizens' National Bank at Greensburg for $184.35 which was deposited by Weber for collection. The Greensburg bank called up the local bank over long distance telephone Wednesday and asked them if the check was good. The president of the bank was informed that Weber had no funds on deposit and had never had an account here. It appears that he told the Greensburg bank that he had some money in the Seymour bank and left the check for deposit. It was made payable to himself. He gave several checks to Greensburg merchants it is reported. But when the paper began to float too freely the bank officials became uneasy and started the investigation. Ben Myers and Lon Rader, both of Greensburg, are holding two checks against Weber.

It is reported that when Weber went to Greensburg, he made it known that he intended to take employment in a barber shop there and engaged board with Mr. Myers. He gave him a check for $5.00 at that time. The check of Mr. Rader was also drawn for $5.00.

This morning the First National Bank of this city received a check drawn by Weber for $5.00. He has no deposits here and this check will be returned and marked "No Funds."

Weber evidently became alarmed after passing several of the checks and went to Rushville Wednesday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Weber. In the meantime it had been found that the checks were worthless and the police at Rushville were notified. He was arrested there Wednesday afternoon. Weber told the police at Rushville, after his arrest, that he had been drinking and came to a "dry" town to sober up. Warrants were sworn out for him at Greensburg. He denied all knowledge of the guilt to the Rushville police.

Weber was arrested here several weeks ago for sealing a shot gun. He borrowed the gun from Chester Miller with the promise of returning it as soon as he came back from a day's hunt. He sold the gun to Gail Hopewell that evening for $10. He disappeared for several days and when he returned said that he had been in Columbus "sobering up." Weber's trial has not been set, but he will likely be bound over to circuit court. He is held on two charges.

LARGE MEADOW CAUGHT FIRE FROM SPARK FROM ENGINE

Field Near Crothersville Is Burned This Afternoon—Neighbors Fight Flames.

A large meadow along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near Crothersville caught fire this afternoon from a spark from a passing engine and it was with difficulty that the flames were extinguished. Owing to the extremely dry condition of the grass the flames spread rapidly and soon the entire field was enveloped in fire and smoke. A number of men living in that vicinity responded to the call for help and spent part of the afternoon in whipping and beating out the fire.

HOTTEST DAY EVER RECORDED HERE

The Government Thermometer Registered 106 Degrees at 3 O'clock This Afternoon.

BURNING, BLISTERING, SIZZLING

Vegetation of All Kinds is Suffering From the Intense Heat Which is Sweeping Southern Indiana.

When the government thermometer recorded 106 degrees at three o'clock this afternoon, it made the highest temperature record that has been recorded in Seymour by the weather bureau. This is one of the days when the air feels as if it came from the hot blast of a furnace. This is especially true down town on the brick streets where there is no shade; even in the residence districts the air blows into the houses with a warmth that is not altogether welcome and seems to burn the skin as it strikes one's face and hands. Vegetation of all kinds is suffering from the intense heat. Corn especially is needing rain and is drying up rapidly under the severe rays of the sun.

Last night was the hottest night of this season by three degrees as the thermometer did not fall below 75 degrees during the night and sleep was well high impossible.

The next highest temperature recorded here was 105 degrees on July 22, 1901. During that month there were several hot burning days similar in conditions to what the weather has given us today.

In his book, "Fifteen Years of Weather, Wind and Water," covering a period from 1887 to 1902, John Auld Forsythe says: "The temperature has risen to 100 degrees or more above zero only five times in fifteen years, Aug. 9, 1894 100 degrees, June 3, 1895 100 degrees, Aug. 16, 1895 100 degrees, Sept. 6, 1899 101 degrees and July 22, 1901 105 degrees.

The month of July 1901 was very much alike the month of July this year. The month was very dry as well as very hot, only three-tenths of an inch of rain fell during the entire

DROUGHT DAMAGES CROPS ON FARM

Good, Soaking Rain Badly Needed to Revive the Withering Corn Fields and Vegetables.

MUSKMELONS ARE HARD HIT

Pastures Are Drying Up and in Some Places Hay is Being Fed to The Cattle.

There are certain times each summer when the farmers get "the blues." Whenever this disease becomes prevalent it spreads rapidly and the farmer would sell his corn crop, melon patch and fruit orchard for little or nothing but all his neighbors are feeling just like him and consequently he keeps them all and reaps the profits in the fall. One variety of "the blues" comes with a drought and specialists declare that the only known cure for this species is a good, soaking rain. As moisture is badly needed on many farms at the present time, the annual malady has appeared and in some parts of the county the cases are severe.

A farmer said this morning that his crops as a whole were the worst he had ever had and even if rain did fall within the next week or ten days, the moisture would do very little good. He said that he had one of the most promising muskmelon patches in the county and expected to pick hundreds of melons, but would not be able to market over two or three baskets from the entire patch because of the dry weather. He asserted the gardens in his neighborhood were drying up and he was compelled to come to the local markets to purchase vegetables such as beans, peas and corn for his own table.

The farmers throughout the county are complaining of the drought and are much alarmed over the present conditions. However, they are rejoicing over the abundant wheat crop, the quality of which was unusually good this year. Jackson county will furnish a large amount of seed wheat for this part of the state next year and hundreds of bushels of wheat are being sold as high as from $1.00 to $1.25 a bushel in the fields. Such wheat, however, is of extra fine quality and will be used exclusively for seed. The market price for wagon wheat remains at 82c.

This part of the county has not suffered for want of rain as badly as have some other counties in this part of the state. There is a stretch of territory near Austin where no rain has fallen for almost two months and there the crops are practically ruined. During the past week light showers of rain have fallen from time to time but the farmers declare that these have done no good as the sun would come out as bright and hot as ever as soon as the rain was over with the result that the dampened crops were scorched and burned by the extreme heat.

In several localities the cornfields, which were looking fine a short time ago, are showing the effects of the drought and heat and some of the stalks are "fired." The prospects for late corn are much better than for

SAW FIRST RUSH IN FAMOUS BATTLE

Bowman H. Yunker, of Eskridge, Kan. Participated in Initial Skirmish at Gettysburg.

VETERAN IS VISITING HERE

Ran One of the Last Boats From New Orleans to Louisville Before Civil War Started.

Bowman H. Yunker, of Eskridge, Kansas, one of the first Union soldiers to fire a gun in the Battle at Gettysburg, is in the city for a visit with his niece, Mrs. J. E. Gault, North Walnut street. He is returning home from Gettysburg where he attended the semi-centennial celebration of the famous battle. He formerly lived at Aurora, and spent several days at that place.

For many years Mr. Yunker was a pilot on the Ohio River, but in 1869 he went to Kansas and took up a tract of land under the Homestead Act. He is still living on that farm upon which he has made many improvements, greatly enhancing its value. It has been years since he has been in Indiana and says that he can see many changes in this part of the country.

Mr. Yunker brought one of the last, if not the last, boat from New Orleans to Louisville before the beginning of the Civil War. With his brother he went to New Orleans and returned on the "Atlantic." Because of the bitter feeling existing in the south, he did not dare to raise the stars and stripes on the boat until it was out of reach of the southern guns, but at the earliest possible moment the flag was hoisted on the staff. As soon as the Confederates saw the flag they opened fire but the boat was out of reach on the shells. This was the first time Mr. Yunker was under fire.

On July 4, 1861 he enlisted in the Third Calvary, Company D, Indiana Volunteers and saw service in the Union army until the close of the war. He engaged in a number of battles, the most serious of which was the conflict at Gettysburg. On the morning of July 1st his company was advanced for picket duty to relieve the Eighth New York calvary. It was about daylight when Mr. Yunker advanced for duty but before the New York volunteers had retired the Confederates began firing. Besides the Eighth New York calvary and the Third Indiana calvary, the Eighth Illinois Calvary was on the firing line and engaged in the first conflict.

When the Confederates opened fire, it marked the beginning of the battle of Gettysburg which continued for several days. Mr. Yunker says that the cloud of smoke was so dense and the confusion so great that it is practically impossible for a private soldier to relate the details of that great battle. During the fight he was struck by a bullet but was not seriously hurt. He remained with his company until the Confederates were routed.

Mr. Yunker was with Captain Grober when the latter informed the

HOOSIER FLYER IN SMASHUP WITH LOUISVILLE CITY CAR

Traction Car Was Damaged But Continued Northbound Trip to Indianapolis.

The northbound interurban limited car, due here at 11:18 o'clock, collided with a Louisville city car this morning. The accident occurred just before the Hoosier Flyer reached the bridge. The failure of the brakes on the city car is assigned as the cause of the smashup.

The traction car was damaged considerably in the accident, having some of the iron work on the front badly bent and broken. However, the motor was not damaged and the car continued on the trip. None of the passengers was hurt. The car was in charge of Motorman Snyder, of this city, and Conductor Red. The city car was damaged, several of the windows being broken.

REVIVED IN TIME TO SAVE HIMSELF

George Slusher, I. C. & S. Conductor, Fell Unconscious to Railroad Track—Escaped Unhurt.

FREIGHT TRAIN APPROACHING

Threw Himself to Side of Rails Just as Engine and Cars Thundered Past Him.

George Slusher, a conductor on the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Line, missed death by a hair's breadth at Columbus a few nights ago when he fell unconscious on a railroad track and came to himself just in time to throw himself out of the way of a passing freight train. He had been suffering from an attack of acute indigestion and was coming home from his run, having been compelled to leave his work.

The Columbus Republican has the following:

George Slusher is recovering from a severe attack of acute indigestion at his home on North Pearl street. He is a conductor on the traction line, and the attack of indigestion came on him a few nights ago while he was on duty north of Franklin. He is now recovering and is telling his friends for the first time of how close he came to death during the attack. In the first place the attack which came on him was very critical, and he barely survived. But he came even closer to death than by the attack, because when he arrived home in this city he got off the traction car at the railroad crossing on north Washington street late at night and started up the railroad track to his home. He fell on the track, unconscious, and remained there for some time, and when he finally came to himself and got off the track the incoming freight from the north thundered by at once.

Mr. Slusher goes on his run about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He was not feeling well when he made this trip but thought he could get through all right. On the advice of his physician he carried a bottle of whiskey with

EMBASSADOR ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Henry Lane Wilson Leaves Post and Will Inform President of Mexican Situation.

GENERAL FIGHTING REPORTED

Mexican Officials Show Keen Interest in the Conference Called at Washington.

City of Mexico, July 17—Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador, is on his way to Washington in response to President Wilson's order to him to come to the capital without delay and report on the Mexican situation. The ambassador left last night over the Mexican railway to Vera Cruz, from which point he expected to sail today. The ambassador received orders from Washington to proceed there without delay, and immediately notified the Mexican foreign office of his intended departure. He will lay before the administration at Washington the exact situation in Mexico, but not before July 27, the earliest he can reach the American capital, unless quarantine is waived, which would permit him to proceed from Havana by way of Key West.

Sharp developments in Mexico during the ambassador's absence would cause no great surprise, although at present there is no good reason to believe that the situation will alter materially. Rendered anxious by the long warfare and conjectures regarding intervention, the American residents here were somewhat alarmed at the ambassador's summons to Washington, but this fear was allayed to some extent by the knowledge that the secretary of the embassy, Nielson O'Shaughnessy, would remain.

Mexican officials show keen interest in the ambassador's departure, but no anxiety, since they believe he will advocate recognition of the Huerta government. That the ambassador will make a plea for recognition, except possibly in some modified or indirect form, is open to doubt; that he will advocate intervention unless conditions during his absence grow worse is regarded as unlikely.

A DOUBLE BARRELED GUARANTEE

The readers of THE REPUBLICAN are asked to consider the two-fold responsibility behind the many products of nationwide repute advertised locally in the newspapers and offered for sale by the leading merchants of this city.

First and foremost, our readers must know that advertising has arrived at such a sound basis that it is a rare thing nowadays that an advertised article does not measure up to the standard established by its advertising.

Secondly, to secure the endorsement and co-operation of our local dealers, manufacturers must prove beyond question the worth of their product.

Thus we find the manufacturer's national reputation fortified by the local merchant's home reputation.

It is quite likely, therefore, that our confidence is easily won and we look with favor upon the many necessities of life offered for sale under such assuring auspices and advertised in newspapers like THE REPUBLICAN.

Dealers interested in local advertising for national products are requested to write to the BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION, World Building, New York.

officers of the Pennsylvania infantry, who had just arrived, of the position of the North Carolina troops, which resulted in the Confederates being driven from their advantageous position. Captain Grober, who had seen military service in Germany, was enlisted in Company E, Indiana cavalry and was a well informed and experienced military man. During the early hours of the battle of Gettysburg, Mr. Yunker worked his way through a tract of timber to a ravine where he was met by Mr. Grober, who was afterward promoted to a captaincy. The soldiers were given an opportunity to survey the field of battle and while they were talking, Mr. Grober noticed the Pennsylvania infantry approaching. This was the first company of infantry to reach the battlefield. Mr. Grober informed the officers of the new company where they could secure an advantageous position and greatly aid the other Union soldiers although Mr. Grober had no authority being a private soldier. However his suggestions were regarded as good with the result that the North Carolina troops were soon put to flight. On the same day Mr. Grober was promoted to a captaincy.

Mr. Yunker said that the visit to the old battlefield was one of the most pleasant experiences of his life. He recalled that fifty years ago when the first advance was made through the town of Gettysburg, fifty-three young ladies carrying baskets filled with flowers stood along the way and showered the soldiers with the flowers. During the celebration five of them were present and at the request of the Indiana veterans sang a number of war songs. More than two-thirds of the number have since died and only five of the survivors could be present at the celebration. Mr. Yunker has with him a stick cut from a cherry tree, which he believes stood within ten feet of the place where the first shot was fired. He intends to have a cane made from the stick. He is now past seventy-nine years of age but is in excellent physical condition and is unusually active for a man of his age.

him for a stimulant. Somewhere north of Franklin he got worse and asked to be relieved from the remainder of his run. It was about 11 o'clock at night when he arrived home in this city on a limited car, which did not stop at any place but the railroad crossing afore mentioned.

With the whiskey still in his pocket Mr. Slusher started up the track to his home, but he was worse and weaker than he thought he was, and so fell unconscious on the track, in the dark. He doesn't know how long he lay there, but he now has a recollection of falling unconscious at three different times in going a distance of three squares on the railroad track before he reached his home. About one hour passed from the time he got off the traction car before he reached home.

What alarms Mr. Slusher the most of all is to think of how near he came to being run over by the midnight freight. He had just barely staggered off the track after the last fall when the long, heavy freight went groaning by. Had he not revived the last time just when he did there would have been a horrible tragedy and the circumstantial evidence would have been that George Slusher was drunk and run over by a train, because he still had the bottle of whiskey in his pocket. Circumstantial evidence is often not true.

After reaching his home Dr. Marshall was called and soon placed Mr. Slusher on the road to recovery, and he will now be able to be on duty again in a few days.

Miss Helen Lewis, who has been spending a week here with her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, returned to her home in Indianapolis this morning.

Miss Edna Swope, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Allen Swope, who was graduated this year from Wellesley College, has returned home. She visited friends in the east after the commencement exercises.

DROUGHT DAMAGES

CROPS ON FARM

that which was planted early as it stands a week or possibly ten days without rain. The reports from various parts of the county say that the corn crop will not be as large as it would have been had rain fallen at the right times but the yield will be good if moisture comes within the next few days.

Melon growers are discouraged and say that their loss will be heavy. The early melon vines are dying rapidly for want of moisture and the later varieties are showing the effects of the drought. Watermelons it is said can stand dry weather better than muskmelons but even some of these are in bad condition.

The long drought has been especially hard on growing gardens. The peas and beans and other vegetables are dying and it is reported that rain would not do them much good now. The pastures are drying up and farmers who own considerable stock find it necessary to feed some hay. Some of the farmers are cutting the early corn now for feed.

Despite the unfavorable reports from some localities, farmers who are more optimistic declare that a good rain would work wonders and with a few exceptions the crops would come out in good shape. The weather bureau has been predicting showers for several days and while they have fallen in adjoining counties, little moisture has been recorded in this immediate vicinity.

On sandy soil, such as is found in many parts of Jackson county, more moisture is needed than in a clay country, but the crops revive readily after a continued drought. Some of the farmers are contemplating the erection of private water systems for their gardens and small vegetables so they would be in a position to supply the necessary water when needed. This could be done at a small cost for in many places the water supply could be furnished by a windmill. Small systems of irrigation have been established on some farms in Indiana with excellent results.

THE Melting of Molly

LEAF FIFTH.

Only an Old Song.

SLEEP is one of the most delightful and undervalued amusements known to the human race. I have never had enough yet, and every second of time that I'm not busy with something interesting I curl up on the bed and go dream hunting—only I sleep too hard to do much catching. But this torture book found that out on me and stopped it the very first thing on page three. The command is to sleep as little as possible to keep the nerves in a good condition—"eight hours at the most and seven would be better." What earthly good would a seven hour nap do me? I want ten hours to sleep and twelve if I get a good tired start. To see me stagger out of my perfectly nice bed at 6 o'clock every morning now would wring the sternest heart with compassion and admiration at my faithfulness—to whom?

Yes, it was the day after poor Mr. Carter's funeral that Aunt Adeline moved up here into my house and settled herself in the big south room across the hall from mine. Her furniture weighs a ton each piece, and Aunt Adeline is not light herself in disposition. The next morning when I went in to breakfast she sat in the "vacant chair" in a way that made me see that she was obviously trying to fill the vacancy. I am sorry she worried herself about that. Anyway, it made me take a resolve. After breakfast I went into the kitchen to speak to Judy.

"Judy," I said, looking past her head, "my health is not very good, and you can bring my breakfast to me in bed after this." Poor Mr. Carter always wanted breakfast on the stroke of 7 and me at the same time, though he rarely got me. Judy has two dead husbands and she likes a ginger colored barber down town. Also her mother is our washerwoman and influenced by Aunt Adeline. Judy understands everything I say to her. After I had closed the door I heard a laugh that sounded like a war whoop, and I smiled to myself. But that was before my martyrdom to this book had begun. I get up now!

But the day after I came from the city I lay in bed just as long as I wanted to and ignored the thought of the exercises and deep breathing and the icy, unsympathetic tub. I couldn't even take very much interest in the lonely egg on the lonely slice of dry toast. I was thinking about things.

Hillsboro is a very peculiar little speck on the universe; even more peculiar than being like a hen. It is one of the oldest towns in Tennessee, and the moss on it is so thick that it can't be scratched off except in spots. But it has a lot of race horse and distillery money in it, and when it gets poked up by anything unusual it takes a gulp of its own alcoholic atmosphere and runs away on its own track at a 2:05 gait, shedding moss as it goes. It hasn't had a real joy race for a long time, and I felt that it needed it. I rolled over and laughed into my pillow.

The subject of the conduct of widows is a serious one. Of all the things old tradition is most set about it is that, and what was decided to be the proper thing a million years ago this town still dictates shall be done and spends a good deal of its time seeing its directions carried out. For a year after the funeral they forget about the poor bereaved, and when they do remember her they speak to and of her in the same tones of voice they used at the obsequies. Then sooner or later some neighbor is sure to see some man walk home from church with her or hear some old bachelor's voice on her front porch. Mr. Cain took Mrs. Caruther's little Jessie up in his buggy and helped her out at her mother's gate just before last Christmas, and if the poor widow hadn't acted quick the town would have noticed them to death before he proposed to her. They were married the day after New Year's, and she lost lots of good friends because she didn't give them more time to talk about it.

I don't intend to run any risk of losing my friends that way, and I want them to have all the good time they can get out of it. I'm going to serve out mint juleps of excitement until the dear old place is running as it did when it was a two-year-old. Why get mad when people are interested in you? It's a compliment, after all, and just gives them more to think about. I remembered the two trunks across the hall and hugged my knees up under my chin with pleasure at the thought of the town talk they contained.

Then just as I had got the first plan well going and was deciding whether to wear the mauve meteor or the white chiffon with the rosebud embroidery as a first julep for my friends a sweetness came in through my window that took my breath away, and I lay still with my hand over my heart and listened. It was Billy singing right under my window, and I've never heard him do it before in all his five years. It was the dearest old fashioned tune ever written, and Billy sang the words as distinctly as if he had been a boy chorister doing a difficult recitative.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!"

My heart beat so it shook the lace on my breast like a breeze from heaven as he took the high note and then let it go on the last few words:

"If you love me, Molly, darling, let your answer be a kiss!"

A confused recollection of having heard the words and tune sung by my mother when I was at the rocking age myself brought the tears to my eyes as I flew to the window and parted the curtains. If you heard a little boy angel singing at your casement wouldn't you expect a cherubim face upturned with heaven lights all over it? Billy's face was upturned as he heard me draw the shade, but it was streaked like a wild Indian's with decorations of brown mud, and he held a long slimy fishworm on the end of a stick while he wiped his other grimy hand down the front of his linen blouse.

"Say, Molly, look at the snake I brought you!" he exclaimed as he came close under the sill, which is not high from the ground. "If you put your face down to the mud and sing something to 'em they'll come outen they holes. A doodle bug come, too, but I couldn't catch 'em both. Lift me up, and I can put him in the water glass on your table." He held up one muddy paddle to me, and promptly I lifted him up into my arms. From the embrace in which he and the worm and I indulged my lace and dimity came out much the worse.

"That was a lovely song you sang about 'Molly, darling,' Billy," I said. "Where did you hear it?"

"That's a good bug song, Molly, and I bet I can git a lizard with it, too, if I sing it right low." He began to squirm out of my arms toward the table and the glass.

"Who taught it to you, sugar sweet?" I persisted as I poured water in on the squirming worm under his direction. "Nobody taught it to me. Doc sings it to me when Tilly, nurse nor you ain't there to put me to bed. He don't know no good songs like 'Roll, Jordan, Roll,' or 'Hot Times' or 'Twinkle.' I go to sleep quick 'cause he makes me feel tired with his slow tune what's only good for bugs. Git a hairpin for me to poke him with, Molly, quick!"

I found the hairpin, and I don't know why my hand trembled as I handed it to Billy. As soon as he got it he climbed out the window, glass, bug and all, and I saw him and the red setter go down the garden walk together in pursuit of the desired lizard, I suppose. I closed the blinds and drew the curtains again and flung myself on my pillow. Something warm and sweet seemed to be sweeping over me in great waves, and I felt young and close up to some sort of big world good. It was delicious, and I don't know how long I would have stayed there just feeling it if Judy hadn't brought in my letter.

He had written from London, and it was many pages of wonderful things all favored with me. He told me about Miss Chester and what good friends they were and how much he hoped she would be in Hillsboro when he got here. He said that a great many of his dainty ways reminded him of her "own slip of a girl," especially the turn of her head like a "flower on its stem." At that I got right out of bed like a jack jumping out of a box and looked at myself in the mirror.

There is one exercise here on page twenty that I hate worst of all. You screw up your face tight until you look like a Christmas mask to get your neck muscles taut and then wobble your head around like a newborn baby until it swims. I did that one twenty extra times and all the others in proportion to make up for those two hours in bed. Hereafter I'll get up at the time directed on page three or maybe earlier. It frightens me to think that I've got only a few weeks more to turn from a cabbage rose into a lily. I won't let myself even think "luscious peach" and "string bean." If I do I get warm and happy all over and let up on myself. I try when I get hungry to think of myself in that blue muslin dress.

I haven't been really willing before to write down in this torture volume that I took that garment to the city with me and what Mme. Rene did to it—made it over into the loveliest thing I ever saw, only I wouldn't let her alter

Typewriters which require hand settings of the carriage in order to reach the starting point of any line are now out-of-date. They have been rendered obsolete by the

of the

Remington

Typewriter

Visible Model 10

The Column Selector of the Model 10 Remington selects the exact point in each line where the writing is to begin—not by a step to step movement of the carriage—not by tedious hand adjustments—but by the automatic response of the carriage to the pressure of a single key.

In ordinary letter writing the position for writing the date, the address, the first line of each paragraph, "Yours truly," and addressing the envelopes is reached instantly, the hands of the operator never leaving the keyboard.

The time saving? Figured on the basis of the operator's wages, it amounts to enough in a short time to pay for the machine.

the size one single inch. I'm honorable as all women are, at peculiar times. I think she understood, but she seemed not to and worked a miracle on it with ribbon and lace. I've put it away on the top shelf of a closet, for it is torment to look at it.

You can just take any old recipe for a party and mix up a debut for a girl, but it takes more time to concoct one for a widow, especially if it is for yourself. I spent all the rest of the day doing almost nothing and thinking until I felt lightheaded. Finally I had just about given up any idea of a blaze and had decided to leak out in general society as quietly as my clothes would let me when a real conflagration was lighted inside me.

If Tom Pollard wasn't my own first cousin I would have loved him desperately even if I am a week older than he. He was about the only oasis in my marriage mirage, though I don't think anybody would think of calling him at all green. He never stopped coming to see me occasionally, and Mr. Carter liked him. He was the first man to notice the white ruche I sewed in the neck of my old black taffeta four or five months ago, and he let me see that he noticed it out of the corner of his eyes even right there in church under Aunt Adeline's very elbow. He makes love unconsciously, and he flirts with his own mother. As soon as I've made this widowhood hurdle—well, I'm going to spend a lot of time buying tobacco with him.

After reading a few of the letters from people who had been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets, I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything I want." For sale by all dealers.

Many special features for the entertainment of the veterans and visitors are down on the program, among them being the "Battle above the Clouds" reproduced in fire works. This spectacle will be the best of the week, and will be visible from the entire surrounding country. Lookout mountain will be ablaze with fire works, and the transportation facilities will be adequate to the accommodation of the large crowd that is expected to witness the spectacle from a closer view than the valley below. The incline railway and the new surface line will be in operation, frequent schedules being arranged for the occasion.

Another feature in the fireworks line has been decided upon for Signal point on Walden's ridge north of Chattanooga. This point was used as a signal station by the Union army in 1863. It has been decided to have a large signal fire to blaze from this point every night during the encampment. This signal fire will be visible from a half dozen states. A modern hotel has just been completed near Signal point, and this will be filled with distinguished guests during the encampment. Trolley lines and automobiles will convey passengers from the city to the mountain in thirty minutes, giving them an opportunity to enjoy the mountain scenery and climate at reasonable cost.

A number of local veterans are making arrangements to attend the encampment.

CLOSING NOTICE ISSUED AT SHOPS

Bulletin Posted by B. & O. S-W.

Officials to Reduce the Operating Expenses.

MONEY MARKET IS TIGHT

When All Departments Are Running Full Time Shops Cost About $2,300 Daily.

The B. & O. S-W. Railroad shops at Washington have been closed until August 1, according to the bulletin posted yesterday and it is believed that all departments will not be running again full time until October 1. The purpose in closing the shops at this time is to reduce the operating expenses of the road, it is reported. This makes the third cut in time at the shops within three weeks and this one practically puts the plant ready for the white lead artist, says the Washington Herald. To give some idea of the reductions made it should be known that under ordinary conditions it costs the company between $2,000 and $2,300 a day to operate the shops. The outlay of cash by the wage route is estimated between $900 and $1,000. The round house in working on a short force on short time and the car department is running on running repairs only. The reduction in the machine shops is from a figure in around $600 to less than $50 a day.

While the order says the shops will be closed until the first of August the general belief of the shop men is that the short time order will prevail until October first. Answering a question of The Herald's as to what was the cause of the quitting of labor when so much work was in need of doing about the shops, one of the officers said: "Our information is to the effect that money is hard to obtain. The company suffered a loss of something like $5,000,000 because of the recent floods, and the eastern bankers will not advance the money needed to keep the road upon its feet. It is understood that the company has some obligations for equipment that must be met in October and since no money can be obtained on the market then our guess is that the surplus now on hands will be converted to the October needs, and we expect but little change in working time until that period passes away."

It is said that other roads are making similar cuts throughout the country.

B. & O. Watching Expenses.

Hundreds of employees of the B. & O. shops have been laid off for thirty days in order to reduce expenses. The reduction of the working force at Washington is in keeping with the plan over the entire system. President Willard says: "The road has been on an abnormal basis in the matter of money spent on maintenance and improvements during the last year. It spent more for improvements during that year than during any year in its history. Having finished this work and having the road in good condition we must reduce our expenses. The men have not been dismissed. They have been merely furloughed. They may be employed again later."

"The business outlook, while not discouraging, is uncertain. It is possible that other reductions in the force may be made. But I cannot say anything about that at this time."

Walsh Estate Reduced.

The estate of John R. Walsh, former president of the Southern Indiana Railroad, whose fortune was estimated at $15,000,000 before the failure of his banks in 1905, has shrunk to $45,000, according to the attorney for the administratrix, who appeared yesterday before the Board of Review. The estate had been assessed at $150,000, but the lawyer asserted that more than two thirds of the property is insolvent and $105,000 was cut from the valuation.

Several fields and meadows have caught fire during the past week but no buildings have been destroyed. The Seymour Country Club was in danger of destruction a few days ago but the timely arrival of some of the members saved the club house. The dry grass caught fire from an engine's spark and the grass was burned up to the house. The flames were extinguished a short distance from the building.

The city fire department was called to the old sucker rod mill this afternoon to extinguish the flames which caught in a pile of saw dust.

Great Meeting at City Park Last Night.

Dr. Ellyson preached a wonderful sermon last night. The text was recorded in Rev. 22:11. The interest and attention was very good and when the invitation was extended for any who desired to be converted, four responded and prayed throughout to victory. Deep conviction was upon many others and several raised their hands for prayer at the close of the service. Fifteen have bowed at the altar for pardon or reclamation thus far in the meeting. We have planned for an educational service Friday at 2:30 p. m. We do not only believe and insist on deep spirituality, but we urge and insist on the training and developing of the intellect as well. All parents who desire to educate their children in a safe and sane university should hear Dr. Ellyson speak on this subject. Take an afternoon off and come to this meeting Friday, 2:30. The spiritual tide is rising higher and each service the evangelist preaches better. Only four more nights left. Don't miss one service. Take your vacation and come to day services.

month with only two cloudy days during the time. Mr. Forsythe says of this month: "July, 1901, was the hottest, driest and brightest of record at this station. The temperature excess was 185 degrees, the deficiency in moisture was 3.50 inches and only two days were cloudy. Pastures were withered, all growing crops were blighted and corn was practically ruined by drought and hot winds. The winds were south-westerly. 15 days were clear, 14 were partly cloudy and 2 were cloudy. Light electrical storms were noted on the 3rd, 17th, 18th, 22nd, 29th, and 30th; very light rains fell on 4 days and the total rainfall was only 0.30 of an inch. Mean temperature, 82.3; maximum, 105 on the 22nd, and minimum 57 on the 31st."

Arbitration Board Likely to Have Its Hands Full.

MAIN POINT IS UNDECIDED

Even in the Face of the Extra Effort on the Part of Congress to Amend Law So as to Make Conciliation of Railroad Dispute Easy for the Disputants, Latter Can't Make Up Their Minds What They Want Arbitrated.

New York, July 17.—From the present attitude of the managers' conference committee of the eastern railroads, as expressed by its representatives, it looks as if when the arbitration board is appointed under the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act to pass on the differences between the trainmen and conductors of the railroads, there will be a dispute as to what is to be arbitrated. On behalf of the managers' committee it was said that the arbitration will apply to the grievances of the railroads as well as to the demands of the men.

As a result of a hurriedly called conference in the engineering society's building between the managers' committee and the conference committees of the trainmen and conductors, it was decided to send a telegram to President Wilson asking for the speedy services of the mediators under the Newlands amendment.

A representative of the conference committee of managers was asked if the committee still held to the view that the managers insist that the complaints or grievances of the railroads will come under the arbitration.

"They hold," he said, "that all questions of rates, of wages and conditions of work of the trainmen and conductors will come under the arbitration proceedings and that the railroads will have matters to submit to arbitration."

When W. G. Lee, head of the trainmen's organization, was told of this he said: "We will not stand for arbitration of anything but the points at issue at the conference between our committees and the committees of the railroads, no mention was made of anything but the questions now in dispute, which are the demands of the trainmen and conductors."

President Garretson of the conductors' organization said in reference to the Erie railroad, which withdrew from the managers' committee and whose officials say it will not be represented in the arbitration proceedings, that they supported the contention that whatever award is made by arbitration must be accepted by the Erie.

"The committee of the conductors and trainmen of the Erie system have been ordered to reconvene here at once," he said.

It was learned that the Erie will not be likely to allow a strike if it can be averted. It is possible that the Erie may agree to arbitration separate from that of the other roads. The Erie will in the meantime, it was said, await the result of the present arbitration.

GIVEN NO ENCOURAGEMENT

Lake County People Protest Against Housing Law's Terms.

Indianapolis, July 17.—A delegation of citizens from Lake county conferred with Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner, concerning the limitations the new housing law imposes on builders of flats and similar structures. The delegation was headed by John Gavit, Democratic county chairman of Lake county. Mr. Gavit explained the situation by saying that in Lake county land had suddenly become extremely valuable. Many business men in Gary and other towns, he said, wish to erect business blocks with flats above them. Such a procedure is practically prohibited by the new law, which prevents the use of more than 65 per cent of the ground on which the dwelling places are to be erected.

The delegation called on Governor Ralston, but got no encouragement. At the state board of health they likewise failed to receive encouragement. They were told that the terms of the law could not be interpreted by the state board, and they would have to appeal to the courts.

Another Christian Science Row.
New York, July 17.—Mrs. Edgar J. Wright of Bayside, L. I., denounced Richard P. Verrill, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in the regular testimonial meeting of the congregation last evening, as "a member of the society of the Jesuits."

Didn't Get to the Jury.
Terre Haute, Ind., July 17.—After a three weeks' trial and before the case went to the jury, the $10,000 damage suit of Fred Yonke against the Big Four railroad for the loss of both legs in a wreck in the local yards was compromised. Yonke will receive $6,000.

Suicide of E. T. Reasoner.
Peru, Ind., July 17.—Ethan T. Reasoner, a lawyer and former representative from Miami county, ended his life at Bass lake by shooting. He had been in ill health for some time.

Prof. Paul Samuel Reinsch of the University of Wisconsin has been selected by President Wilson to be minister to China.

LEE AND GARRETSON.

Two Labor Chiefs Who May Order a Strike Involving Over 100,000 Railroad Men.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (on top), and A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, are making every effort to adjust the present differences between the two railroad companies east of the Mississippi and their employees. Over 100,000 men and 50,000 miles of railroad are involved in the dispute.

CLOUDBURST TRAPS MINNESOTA MINERS

Fifteen Men Found Their Escape Cut Off.

Eveleth, Minn., July 17.—Of the fifteen miners imprisoned in the Spruce mine by a cloudburst, ten have been rescued. A crew of men is dynamiting the drifts, and it is thought they will reach the other five before long. It is believed that they are still living.

About twenty-five men are employed on the shift, and when the cloudburst came all were working on the lower level. The pouring of the water down the shaft was the first intimation they received of the trouble. All attempted to get out, but the water flowed in so fast that fifteen were caught after reaching the upper level. All the rest were carried to safety on the lifts.

Both Sides Are Satisfied.

Lexington, Ky., July 17.—The strike of the streetcar motormen and conductors has been settled. Practically all the old men applied for their positions and were put to work at once. The strike breakers were sent home. Both sides apparently are satisfied with the agreement.

Second Attempt Successful.

Clayton, Ind., July 17.—Mrs. Brint Leitzman, aged thirty-five, committed suicide by taking poison. She had attempted suicide before by eating pulverized glass. It seems she was subject to temporary mental aberrations.

COL. MULHALL'S 5,000 LETTERS

Senate Committee Delving Into Extraordinary File.

SURFACE HARDLY SCRATCHED

Though the Investigation Has Reached That Period in the Activities of the Busy Colonel Mulhall When He Had Become Mixed Up in Big Affairs in Washington, There Is Much That Hasn't Yet Been Touched Upon.

Washington, July 17.—Colonel Martin M. Mulhall volunteered the assertion, during the review of Mulhall's 5,000 letters by the senate lobby committee, that the National Council for Industrial Protection was possessed of the power to raise at any time from $500,000 to $700,000 a year to promote legislation favorable to the employing interests or to hinder labor legislation of a radical character. The committee did not delve very far into the colonel's assertion when he made it, but later called to the stand J. P. Bird, general manager of the National Manufacturers' association and interrogated him as to the character, composition and scope of the national council, of which he is the treasurer. Bird told the committee that organization had been formed for purposes of combating the radical tendencies in the matter of state and national labor legislation. The association numbered some twenty-five subsidiary associations, of which the most important was the N. A. M. He said that Mulhall's assertion that the National Council for Industrial Defense makes an annual expenditure in its legislative activity of half a million or more, will be met by the production of the treasurer's book of the national council, which will show expenditures, he said, of $35,000 or $40,000 per annum.

In the committee's review of Mulhall's correspondence it reached the period in the career of the colonel when he had become active in big affairs in Washington. The colonel laid claim to a most intimate relation with the late Vice President James S. Sherman, then a member of the house and chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. He was hand in glove with Representative James E. Watson, then newly nominated for the governorship of Indiana. He called on Senators Aldrich and Foraker with reckless abandon.

A letter written by Mulhall to Mr. Schwedman in the spring of 1908, when Colonel Roosevelt was president, told of a conversation between Watson and Roosevelt with regard to certain legislation pending and Mr. Roosevelt's chances for a third term was read. A report by Mulhall on the situation in the district of Representative John J. Gardner of New Jersey, also was read. Mr. Gardner had incurred the enmity of the N. A. M. through his persistent advocacy of the eight-hour bill, then pending before the house labor committee. In this report Mulhall says among other things:

"In my interview with Mr. Sherman, the chairman of the Republican national committee, on Wednesday, he distinctly told me that we ought to defeat Gardner at the coming primary election if possible. Mr. Sherman also stated that he has done everything he possibly could to stop Gardner from getting these radical bills before congress."

In a letter to Mr. Schwedman, dated Columbus, O., March 21, 1908, Colonel Mulhall tells of a talk with Mr. Vorys, who then was Secretary Taft's political manager. This took place while Mulhall was in Ohio helping R. D. Cole's reorganization for congress. Mr. Vorys assured him, he said, that the secretary was just as strong as he ever was regarding injunction laws, and was not in favor of amending them. He also stated that Mr. Taft stood for a tariff commission. Mulhall told Vorys that there were two things the N. A. M. wanted. One was that they wished representation on the next national campaign committee, and the other was that they felt that they were entitled to a member in the next cabinet.

STUDIES WERE UNAVAILING

These Boys Did Not Learn How Not to Be Caught.

New York, July 17.—Two sixteen-year-old high school boys, indicted for burglary and robbery, have confessed that they began a career of scientific crime to get money to pay their way through college as a preliminary to a life as high class crooks.

To do this they read every detective story they could find, they spent hours in public libraries poring over historic crime, read the daily papers and compared notes to see how they could escape blunders that caused the downfall of actual criminals. They saw dramas of crime and read the confessions of thieves.

The boys are Louis Koenig and Nathan Koshelle, who pleaded guilty two days ago to an indictment charging them with holding up a man and stealing $2,200 worth of gold fillings from him.

President Wilson is confident that the tariff bill will have been passed by congress and signed by him by Sept. 1.

STATE GUARD TO HAVE BUSY WEEK

Preparations For Coming Encampment of I. N. G.

SOME INTERESTING FEATURES

One of the Most Important Points on the Program For the Week Is the Attention That Will Be Given to Military Athletics, All Sorts of Stunts Being Provided For—Officers' School in Progress This Week.

Indianapolis, July 17.—One day of the encampment of the Indiana national guard at Fort Benjamin Harrison next week, will be given over to military athletics. There will be races of a varied nature, including dashes over hurdles, equipment races, in which the soldier will remove his fighting outfit and replace it; relay races, speed contests in bearing the wounded from the field, tugs of war between regiments, and other contests. The most important event of the day will be a drill contest by squads, in which every infantry company in the Indiana national guard will participate.

They are having officers' school for the officers of the Indiana national guard this week and are putting them through all the paces of the men of the ranks. Officers' school in state guard organizations has been adopted by the war department as a means of giving the officers direct service in the field. They get right down to the humble business of soldiering. Heretofore only the officers holding commissions have been admitted to these field schools, but this year two noncommissioned officers from each company in the Indiana national guard are included in the student list. This is regarded as a highly important military step forward and the "noncoms" at Fort Harrison are bending every effort to make a better showing in the field than the commissioned officers.

Chose Dangerous Resting Place.

Richmond, Ind., July 17.—Richard Bardick, thirty years old, was fatally injured by being run down by a C. & O. train south of Richmond. The man, who was an employe of the railroad, sat down on the tracks at a curve and fell asleep.

Warsaw, Ind., July 17.—An "iceberg" 100 feet long, 100 feet wide and 25 feet high has been left exposed to the sun by the fire which destroyed the plant of the Marion Ice company. The ice has been covered with hay and will be shipped as rapidly as possible.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

VACATION CANDY.

FOR vacation treats a plain home-made fudge is a candy easy to make and not likely to have the harmful effects of rich candies purchased in many shops.

Fudges are easy to make. Indeed, the older children can be taught how to prepare them and as a special reward be allowed to make their own candies.

Fudges differ in name, but the method of making them all is about the same.

Fudges Everybody Likes.

Chocolate Fudge.—Take two pieces of chocolate, melt and add to it one-half cupful of cream, two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses and a lump of butter the size of an egg. Put the ingredients into a saucepan, stir them constantly and let them boil four minutes from the time they commence to boil hard. Test in cold water. Remove from the fire when the mixture forms a soft ball in water. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla; then beat till heavy and smooth. Pour in buttered pans and spread to one-half inch thickness. Cut in squares.

Cocoanut Fudge.—Take two cupfuls of granulated sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, butter the size of a walnut, one cupful of shredded cocoanut and one teaspoonful of lemon extract. Proceed as for chocolate fudge.

A Brown and White Effect.

Layer Fudge.—Use a square bread pan for this. Make chocolate fudge, pour in and let it harden; then add a layer of cocoanut. Make this quite thick, cut in large squares and wrap in oiled paper.

Chocolate Nut Fudge.—Make this like chocolate fudge, adding one cupful of chopped nut meats when adding vanilla. English walnuts and almonds or hickory nuts and peanuts are nice for this.

Toothsome Sweetmeats.

Marshmallow Fudge.—Place in a saucepan two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk and one tablespoonful of butter and two ounces of grated chocolate. Boil until it forms a soft ball when tested in cold water. Remove from the fire and add one teaspoonful of vanilla and a cupful of marshmallows chopped. Forest Notes.

Experiments with a tree planting machine at the Utah agricultural experiment station indicate that it may be used to advantage in reforesting old burned areas in the national forests.

The officials of the Yosemite National park are co-operating with the forest officers of the Stanislaus and Sierra national forests for fire prevention and control in both the park and the forests.

The leading forest schools of the country not only have their own forest tracts for continuous experiments, but give their students actual experience in the woods by having them take part in big lumbering operations.

A Good Investment.

W. D. Magli, a well known merchant of Whitewater, Wis., bought a stock of Chamberlain's medicine so as to be able to supply them to his customers. After receiving them he was himself taken sick and says that one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was worth more to him than the cost of his entire stock of these medicines.
